Special Bulletin

February 6, 2007

Dear Resident and Non-resident Surplus Lines Licensees,

PSLA is pleased to announce that effective February 1, 2007 Accolade Management, Inc. will be providing management services to the Membership Division of the Pennsylvania Surplus Lines Association.

Accolade manages a number of insurance and professional associations and entities, including the American Association of Managing General Agents (AAMGA). Accolade is founded on an innovative business concept, namely, that the most responsible and efficient management of a professional association is not through a traditional association management company. Rather, Accolade offers the opportunity of a company of professionals to manage the Membership Division.

Accolade's recognition by federal and state legislators and regulatory authorities; its accreditation by all 50 state insurance departments to provide continuing education insurance related courses; and its membership in other industry trade associations, also allow it to offer additional value to the Membership Division. Accolade's in-house technology, web site maintenance, business processing outsourcing, web-based communications, newsletter design and publishing capabilities enable Accolade to offer a full array of services.

The PSLA Membership Division looks forward to providing outstanding and useful services to our members.

Best regards,

David Bowersox / rls
